Today's Seeds is dedicated to harnessing the power of the Arts. In Native American tradition it is said, "That which you do today, impacts seven generations." Thus, these books are focused on harvesting all the benefits that research has concluded the Arts will bring to our overall wellbeing. Today's Seeds, as well as Jo-Jo, tries to build bridges, find pathways and enrich the communities in which we live.

Jon Neal Selzer is committed to making a difference for others. He has worked as an actor, social worker, financial planner and now author. He is passionate about the arts and travel, and continues to spend his life trying to improve the world. Jon's ambassador is his good friend Jo-Jo.

Kevin Kelly works as an illustrator and graphic designer with his wife Rebecca, who is a professor of Communications Design at Syracuse University. They live in Central New York with their two kids, Finn and Harper.
